In honor of Women's History Month at Emory
Emory Women's Center presents

An Evening with Ambassador
Carol Moseley Braun

Carol Moseley Braun was the first African American woman elected to the U.S. Senate in 1992. She prevailed by challenging the incumbent's decision to confirm Clarence Thomas to the U.S. Supreme Court despite sexual harassment charges against him. She was named U.S. Ambassador to New Zealand and Samoa in 1999.

Monday, March 25
7:30 pm
